Accounting policies

General principles

The Dependency Statement has been prepared in compliance with the Latvian Groups Act. The terms 'controlling entity' and 'dependent company', as well as other terms in this Statement are used within the meaning of the said legislation.

Materiality

In reflecting and valuing transactions and other activities in the Dependency Statement, the Company has followed the principle of materiality.

Transactions (activities), their circumstances and valuations, the non-inclusion of which in the Dependency Statement would affect the opinion of a competent user on the relationship of the Dependent Company with the controlling entity throughout the financial year, are considered material.

Recording of transactions and activities

The Dependency Statement reflects transactions and other activities unprofitable for the Company to the extent of their actual performance and counter-performance.

The Dependency Statement reflects all transactions (performance and counter-performance) attributable to the reporting period that affect the profit and loss account for the reporting year irrespective of the date invoices are issued or received or payments made. Transactions performed in prior years that affect the profit and loss account of the reporting year are reflected only if the performance was different than the counter-performance of these transactions at the date of transaction.

If the controlling entity has notified the Dependent Company in writing by the end of the financial year as to when and how all the losses resulting from an unprofitable transaction or activity will be compensated, the amount of compensation is reflected in the line 'Granted entitlement to compensation'.

Performance and counter-performance

The Dependent Company's obligations pertaining to the transaction are considered the performance of a transaction. Counter-performance is the obligations by the party to the transaction other than the Dependent Company. Performance (counter-performance) can take the form of a payment, supply of goods or services, including actions carried out as operational activities, transfer of intangible assets and title as well as commitments to refrain from an action or permit an action, lease of properties, etc.

Performance and counter-performance is reflected at their fair value. Fair value is the amount for which the subject-matter of a transaction can be exchanged between informed and willing parties at arm's length.

Determining fair value of transactions and activities

The Company's transactions and activities shall be valued:

1. based on comparison with other activities or transactions of the kind carried out by the Company with non-related parties during the reporting or previous year;
2. where the above has been impossible, based on comparison with other activities and transactions of the kind carried out by companies of the industry in the reporting or previous year;
3. where the above has been impossible, based on comparison with other information on the possible valuation of transactions or activities.

Fully or partly unprofitable transactions or activities

The following transactions or activities are considered fully or partly unprofitable:

1. where a loss is anticipated on commencement,
2. which result in a gross loss, or
3. in which the Company, if it were independent, would never engage due to the anticipated financial result.

Special risk

Transactions or activities related to special risk are those which materially differ in terms of risk from those typical of the company's or industry's business and in which the Company would never engage if it were independent.

Transactions and activities materially different from core business

Transactions and activities materially different from the Company's core business are those which drastically differ from the transactions and activities typical of the Company's core business and in which the Company would never engage if it were independent.
